MARLON AND THE SHAKES is a Chicago band that offers up a perfectly mixed musical cocktail of funk, blues and rock music. The group has delivered infectious grooves and to countless private events, clubs, and festivals across the country. Most recently THE SHAKES dropped their self-released 2018 debut EP, "Here Come the Shakes". High user reviews of songs from the album have earned THE SHAKES a featured artist on Reverbnation.com in the summer of 2019 as well as a spot on their "Rising Chicago Artists" playlist. "Here Come the Shakes" is available on all major streaming outlets.

THE SHAKES band leader MARLON LONGID cut his musical teeth playing with some of the finest musicians of this time, sharing the stage with roots rock legend Rick Danko (The Band), Dennis DeYoung (Styx), Blues Traveler and Chicago R&B great Pete Special (Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows). He formed the rock outfit SoulFix in 1999 and eventually earned the right to play with national acts Staind, Maroon 5 and King's X. Marlon proudly uses Paul Reed Smith guitars, Fender amps and Franklin Straps.

Bass extraordinaire and SHAKES founding member ADRIAN MORRIS has provided the bottom end to a multitude of Chicago-based musical projects over the years. His groove is felt in the funk stylings of Obi Soulstar, the R&B music of Syleena Johnson, the rock/blues sounds of Davy Knowles and the gospel music of Malcolm Williams. Adrian's instrument of choice is his Lakland bass which is amplified by TC Electronics.

CJ TUCKER comes to THE SHAKES by way of the Chicago R&B and blues scene. He's played with a multitude of artists, including the Isley Brothers, Terisa Griffin, Angie Stone and blues greats Buddy Guy, Ronnie Baker Brooks and Sugar Blue. He joined THE SHAKES' ranks in 2017. CJ trusts DW drums, Sabian cymbals and Pro-mark sticks.
